PROJECT SPOTLIGHT

Basecamp Recovery Center (BRC) is a substance abuse treatment center serving Franklinton and Greater Hilltop neighborhoods of Columbus. BRC is an abstinence-based, person-centered treatment center adhering strictly to evidence-based practices. BRC recognizes alcoholism and drug addiction as a treatable disease and views prevention as an optimum outcome followed closely by early intervention. The company believes that treatment with medication along with counseling and social support is the most effective choice for opioid and other addictions and plays a critical role in recovery.

This project is a personal mission of Robert Graessle, DO FACEP. Working as an ER physician since 2007, Rob saw firsthand the devastating impact of the opioid crisis. Not only did Rob see the crisis at work, but he also saw the damaging impact to his childhood home of Franklinton, where crime, homelessness and poverty are running rampant. Rob knew it was time to act. Rob worked with Chad Paul of Premier Bank to put together a financing package to purchase the building using CCDC and the SBA 504 loan program. The bank provided additional financing to the company via an SBA 7a loan to fund start up working capital. Basecamp Recovery Center is poised and ready to support the community, whether it is someone struggling with substance abuse or providing a place of meaningful employment to area residents.
